WIEDERHOLD AND ASSOCIATES
Box 160
5174 McGinnis Ferry Rd.,
Alpharetta GA 30005

3 CEO retirements in 2 weeks
1. Paul Kempinski plans to retire as president and CEO of Children's Mercy Kansas City (Mo.) after more than 40 years in healthcare leadership. Mr. Kempinski has helmed Children's Mercy since November 2018.
2. Kevin Yingling, RPh, MD, CEO of Huntington, W.V.-based Marshall Health Network, will retire next year. Dr. Yingling was the inaugural CEO of the health system, according to an April 29 news release. He took the helm in August 2021, when the organization was known as Mountain Health Network.
3. Steve Altmiller will retire as president and CEO of WVU Medicine Camden Clark Medical Center in Parkersburg, W.Va., effective Aug. 31. Mr. Altmiller took the helm of Camden Clark in January 2018. Sean Smith, president of New Martinsville, W.Va.-based WVU Medicine Wetzel County Hospital, a role he's held since January 2021, and the COO of Camden Clark, will succeed Mr. Altmiller.

3 CFO moves in 3 days
1. Ernest Borjas was named assistant CFO of AllianceHealth Durant (Okla.) and AllianceHealth Madill (Okla.), both part of Franklin, Tenn.-based Community Health Systems.
2. Chicago-based CommonSpirit named Jeff Daneff CFO of its California Central Coast market.
3. Dan Gross, CFO of N.H.-based Cheshire Medical Center, retired.

- Medical City hospital taps assistant CFO

Medical City Fort Worth (Texas) has named Benjamin Baggi assistant CFO.

- Trinity hospital taps HCA exec as president

Trinity Health of New England has named Valerie Powell-Stafford president of Hartford, Conn.-based Saint Francis Hospital, effective June 3.

- Los Angeles hospital taps CFO

Los Angeles-based MLK Community Hospital has named Steven Ciampa its permanent CFO, according to a May 13 post on his LinkedIn page.

- HCA taps CEO for Tennessee hospital

Chattanooga, Tenn.-based Parkridge Health System, part of Nashville, Tenn.-based HCA Healthcare, has tapped Caroline Burris as CEO for its Parkridge East Hospital in Chattanooga.

UNC taps hospital CFO from Bon Secours Mercy Health

UNC Health Lenoir, a 199-bed hospital in Kingston, N.C., has appointed Bharadwaj "Brad" Mantha vice president and CFO, effective June 10, according to a news release shared with Becker's.

- Atrium physician exec heads to Baptist Health

Jacksonville, Fla.-based Baptist Health has appointed D. Brandon Chapman, MD, as the inaugural vice president of medical affairs for two hospitals.

- Louisiana health system promotes CFO

Opelousas (La.) General Health System CFO Jim Juneau has been promoted to executive vice president of business strategy and finance.

- Texas hospital names president

Michael Stewart was appointed president of Methodist Charlton Medical Center in Dallas, part of Methodist Health System.

- HCA hospital taps 1st female CEO

Tammy Razmic was selected as the new CEO of StoneSprings Hospital Center in Sterling, Va., part of Nashville, Tenn.-based HCA Healthcare.

- MUSC Health hospital taps HCA exec as chief medical officer

Carnell Cooper, MD, has been named chief medical officer of MUSC Health Orangeburg (S.C.)

California hospital names new CEO

Colton, Calif.-based Arrowhead Regional Medical Center has named Andrew Goldfrach CEO, effective June 1

- New Jersey hospital names VP of HR

Manny Gonzalez has been named vice president of human resources for Livingston, N.J.-based Cooperman Barnabas Medical Center, part of West Orange, N.J.-based RWJBarnabas Health.

- UVM Health hospital president to oversee two facilities

Bob Ortmyer has been named president of both Middlebury, Vt.-based Porter Medical Center and Elizabethtown (N.Y.) Community Hospital, part of Burlington, Vt.-based UVM Health. He will also serve as COO of Porter Medical Center.

- Johns Hopkins hospital names president, COO

LeighAnn Sidone, DNP, RN, was named president and COO of Suburban Hospital in Bethesda, Md., part of Baltimore-based Johns Hopkins Medicine.

- Children's Mercy CEO to retire

Paul Kempinski plans to retire as president and CEO of Children's Mercy Kansas City (Mo.) after more than 40 years in healthcare leadership.

- Mount Carmel Health System names new president, CEO

Columbus, Ohio-based Mount Carmel Health System, part of Livonia, Mich.-based Trinity Health, named Tauana McDonald president and CEO, effective July 1. Ms. McDonald will succeed Lorraine Lutton who shared plans to retire last December.

- HCA Florida hospital names new VP of operations

Sun City Center, Fla.-based HCA Florida South Shore Hospital, part of Nashville, Tenn.-based HCA Healthcare, named David Link its new vice president of operations April 21.

- Arkansas Children's Northwest taps veteran pediatric leader as chief administrator

In July, Rustin Morse, MD, will step into the role of senior vice president and chief administrator at Arkansas Children's Northwest in Springdale. He previously served in C-suite roles at other pediatric hospitals and health systems.

- CommonSpirit taps market CFO

Chicago-based CommonSpirit has named Jeff Daneff CFO of its California Central Coast market, according to a May 7 post on his LinkedIn page.

- Dignity Health names market president

Rodger Page was named president of Dignity Health's North State market.

- Coffey Health System names new leader after CEO resigns

Burlington, Kan.-based Coffey Health System has named Stacy Augustyn, MSN, RN, its CEO, effective Aug. 1, after Joben Rieth, RN, tendered his resignation April 15.